We look forward to seeing you at this wonderful event. If you have not done so already, please contact the Temple office to purchase your tickets. It promises to be a fantastic evening. For more information, please see: templesinailyv.org/gala2018.
President’s Message

Dear Congregants,

January and February are relatively slow times as far as Temple activities go. This has given our staff a chance to catch up on their work and plan for the remainder of the year. Our new Executive Director, Marty Hagans has been very busy organizing the staff and handling many projects. You will notice a difference in the appearance of the property, both inside and out.

A nominating committee has been appointed and shortly will be sending letters out to the congregation requesting applications for board positions. Please consider applying for a board position if you feel that you have skill sets that can be utilized by the temple. A slate of nominees will be presented to the congregation for voting at the Annual meeting on May 6, 2018.

Our next major event will be our annual Gala at Red Rock Casino and Hotel. The Gala is on March 10, 2018. The gala committee is doing something very different this year, which I think you will find to be quite enjoyable. Please get your reservations into the Temple office. Also, we would appreciate ads in the tribute book for our honorees, Wendy Kraft and Laura Sussman. Again, please call the office if you would like to place an ad.

Until next month.

I once asked a Rabbi who had served the same congregation for thirty years, how he kept things fresh. He replied simply, “I read!” He may have been giving me the brush-off, but on reflection, he had a point. Being exposed to new ideas, Jewish or otherwise, keeps us fresh, gives us inspiration and revitalizes our souls.

The problem of course, is our smartphones. I read stuff on my phone but often in short, sharp chunks of online content, fleeting and shallow. Articles, not books, snapshots, not novels. That doesn’t mean our phones are bad, they expose us to new ideas as well, it’s just that we go deeper and wider with books.

I’m not only talking about Jewish books by the way. Since the French Revolution, Jews have been open to exploring concepts way beyond the crumbling, ghetto walls. In recent months, I have read a book about a woman’s obsession with a hawk, the different equipment soldiers carry around with them, a tome of overlapping stories about Chinese immigrant life, and a novel set in nineteenth century, rural England. I got something from all of them, even when I found the reading hard-going. After I had devoured the final word crumbs of each, there was left an afterglow, a sense of achievement, and a hint that I had been transformed for the better.

I’m biased, of course. My upbringing as the son of a bookseller and my vocation as a Rabbi who has the privilege of dealing with sacred texts every day helps me lean towards a life of reading. But I implore you to do the same. Look for the bestsellers, the Jewish book festival lists, the random recommendations. Consult with family members and friends and work out what floats your literary boat...and then tell me what you’re reading. This article is meant to inspire you, but it will also hopefully lead to a whole new raft of reading suggestions for me! Trust me, you won’t regret it. Reading books will change your life. It will nourish you spiritually, intellectually and emotionally. It will open up endless new windows on the world.

L’shalom/to peace

Cantorial Soloist Heather Klein

The end of January was the celebration of Tu B’Shvat which is the celebration of the trees. Trees grow and bloom and give new life. In my personal life, I have had a new life growing and developing inside me, and as my due date draws near at the end of this month, I look forward to welcoming a new addition to my family. Thanks to everyone for their support and love during the last 8 months!

February holds Purim this year. Though I will not be at the Purim Shpiel, I am so excited that our teens Riley Fulton and Jordan Feinberg will be helping out with the Shpiel. Riley will be helping with rehearsals and filming the production. Jordan will be choreographing movement. We will also have a fun costume contest for kids that morning of February 25th before our yearly Purim carnival. Don’t miss this!

Our 20’s and 30’s group “Out the Dor” has kicked off the year with a bang with our Makers and Finders Shabbat dinner, and our Downtown Summerlin Farmer’s Market/Lazy Dog lunch. In February, we will have our quarterly Shabbat After Dark collaboration with Congregation Ner Tamid being held on the east side of town. Also, we will have a Springs Preserve event in February and Hockey in March, so keep an eye out!

After Adult Choir’s beautiful Hanukkah Shabbat, we are looking forward to our next Choir Shabbat services on February 23rd and March 30 (for Passover).

Save the date for our next Pop Up Shabbat on: April 20 @ the El Cortez. Same location as last year! This year we welcome Nefesh Mountain! And trust me, if you like some of the bluegrass you have heard at Friday Night Live, you will love this group!

With ruach!
Heather

Education for Values

One of the prominent selling points for private schools and specifically Jewish private schools, is the education for values. At our Religious School, we strive to fulfill the same goal of education for values by promoting acts of kindness. How kind are our students? How do they think of one another? Are Temple Sinai Religious School children able to think critically about themselves and their classmates?

I often have the pleasure of teaching certain lessons and communicating with the children and after a few discussions about respect, honor, and acceptance, I asked the students to present a thought about their views of Jewish values. I was moved by the thoughts that many of the students had and from the depth of some of the responses. I must share a few responses with you as I am sure you will appreciate them as much as I do. The Madrichim are perceived as good role models. Some pointed out that some of their peers are seen as ones who do good deeds, some pointed at friends who stand up for people and some recognized those who treat people as they want to be treated. The list goes on and on.

So where do we look for fine tuning of our values in education? Talking to our students and more importantly, listen to them. They have so much to share. It is the responsibility of the adults in their lives to present endless opportunities for the children to think about those things that we value; those things we learn through our traditions. I thank the teachers who work diligently to enrich our children’s lives on a daily basis.

Shabbat Shalom,

Dr. Sharon R. Knafo
Education Director
Bar Mitzvah of Jordan Snyder

Jordan Mac Snyder will be called to the Torah as a Bar Mitzvah on February 10, 2018. Jordan is a seventh grade student at Alexander Dawson and is an Honor Student. Jordan enjoys sports and plays quarterback for his school team as well as other leagues. He also plays lacrosse and runs track. Jordan also has a love for music, especially alternative and pop punk bands. In addition to creating his own songs and beats and being a student at School of Rock, Jordan is in his own band that will play at his Bar Mitzvah. Jordan has two younger brothers, Luc (11) and Jude (8), and is a great big brother most of the time and a black Lab, Nola who is 9. During summers, Jordan is a camper at Camp Cedar in Maine and has developed some great friendships there with kids from all over the country. When he is not playing sports or practicing music, Jordan likes to play video games and ride his bike in the neighborhood with his brothers and friends.

Bat Mitzvah of Kate Wingate

Kate Linda Wingate will be called to the Torah as a Bat Mitzvah on February 3, 2018. Kate is a 7th grader at Doral Academy Red Rock. Kate is a bright student and has been invited to join the National Junior Honor Society. For the past six years Kate has dedicated herself to competitive gymnastics. She practices 22 hours a week at Flip For Me Gymnastics. She loves spending time with her family, friends and cat, Elijah. When it’s time to relax and have fun, Kate plays video games, watches YouTube, and experiments with making different types of slime. Her favorites shows are Bratayley, 8 passengers, iJustine and Rebeeca Zamalo. Kate loves discovering new places. An avid traveler, she has visited Mexico, San Francisco, New York, and Chicago in the last year. This summer she plans to visit several countries in Southern Asia. She enjoys giving back to the community by volunteering at the JCC Barbeque, feeding the homeless and raising money for the NSPCA.

Bar Mitzvah of Jacob Futrell

Jacob Alden Futrell will be called to the Torah as a Bar Mitzvah on February 24th, 2018. Jacob was born Feb 13, 2005 in Las Vegas. He lives with his parents, Susan and Robert, along with his brothers Ben (14) and Mason (7), his best dog Astra and freaky cat Spooks. Jacob is in 7th grade at Hyde Park Math and Science Academy. He is a performer in the Hyde Park guitar program and will travel to Anaheim, California for a music competition in March. Jacob also enjoys science and hopes to someday become a guitar-playing robotics engineer.

Jacob is very athletic. He is an accomplished rock climber. As a member of the Red Rock Climbing Center’s climbing team, he excels at bouldering, and has participated in several local and regional competitions. He especially enjoys bouldering at Red Rock Conservation Area. Jacob also enjoys soccer, puzzles, video games and sleeping.

Friends and family know Jacob’s gentle and caring nature. Some even call him the “baby whisperer,” for his amazing ability to bring smiles to baby’s faces. We are so very excited to see Jacob take his next step toward adulthood as a Bar Mitzvah.
Amongst my biggest professional pet peeves is the common misconception that Judaism’s traditions and holidays are outdated and irrelevant in the modern, secular world. While Judaism is certainly a religion of laws and customs, the idea that the traditions of our people that have lasted for centuries and millennia are suddenly irrelevant is at best closed-minded, and at worst cripplingly arrogant. Reform Judaism is unlike Conservative and Orthodox Judaism by allowing freedom and experimentation within Jewish practice - the Reform Jew should be knowledgeable of our texts and traditions, but has the freedom to observe however is meaningful for them. Unfortunately, this often leads to a perception that “we don’t do (insert custom/tradition here) because we’re Reform Jews.” Instead, we must wrestle with our traditions in order to determine what practices we find meaningful enough to insert into our regular lives.

Each holiday in the Jewish calendar has an underlying purpose that is pragmatic and useful within modern life - and Shabbat is perhaps the finest example. It is truly the finest gift that Judaism has to offer; unfortunately, its observance is often characterized as being restrictive rather than meaningful. Shabbat is a separation in time, an opportunity to step away from our busy lives and to reflect upon ourselves each week. It is a time to be with our family and community; a scheduled time to tell our partners that we appreciate them and our children we love them. It is an opportunity to set aside our work lives and to be with those who matter most without distraction. For some folks, Shabbat means turning off electronics and attending services; for others, lighting candles at the family dinner table followed by board games and a movie before bed; my strongest recommendation is stopping work and homework for a certain amount, if not for all of, Shabbat. However an individual or a family chooses to “remember the Sabbath and keep it holy” (Exodus 20:8), what matters is making it special and different, to stop and reflect, and to be with the people who make our lives whole. It is a weekly gift that, if utilized, is a wonderful tool towards a more mindful and healthy well-being.

Due to its success in November, we are so excited to be having our second community Shabbat Sha-Brunch program. While many of us regularly experience the delight of Shabbat evening, Shabbat continues through Saturday afternoon into the sunset. Shabbat Sha-Brunch is a community-wide, family-friendly Saturday morning program hosted in a congregant’s home (the sight of a Torah scroll on a coffee table is beautifully striking), with a brief and lively service followed by a Shabbat-themed brunch. Our next Shabbat Sha-Brunch is on Saturday, March 17th at 11 AM in the home of Ilana and David Shapiro, located at 8019 Echo Cliff Lane, 89129. Mark your calendars so you won’t miss out on this wonderful program!

L'Shalom,

Our Social Action Committee sent a team of 18 enthusiastic volunteers to Three Square. Teams on our 2-hour shift packed 3,100 pounds of groceries and vegetables for 620 food insecure families in our community. Through our support and the help of 1,600 community partners throughout Southern Nevada, Three Square is able to work towards serving the 279,000 people in our community who are food insecure. Hot meals, week-end food backpacks and family grocery boxes need to be prepared for distribution. Volunteers never know what our assignment will be, but we always have a good time working together. Join us in April for the next Team Temple Sinai shift at Three Square. Individuals, families and havurah groups are welcome. Call Nancy Shinder to sign on.

-Anne Frank

Charitable gifts have helped to build and sustain Temple Sinai throughout our history. Support from congregants underwrites our worship opportunities, helps provide education programs and provides the means to heal our broken world through acts of chesed (kindness) and tikvun olam (repairing the world).

Your donations enable full participation in our community for those who might otherwise be unable to express their Jewish identities including seniors, young families with children and the less fortunate.

Remembering any life cycle occasion is often done with Tzedakah. Tribute donations may be made to honor a birthday, anniversary or other special occasion; to express sympathy; to honor the memory of a loved one [Yahrzeit], or simply to say “thank you.” Our suggested minimum contribution is $8 per tribute, and may be designated to any of our many funds. To make a donation, please call the Temple office at (702) 254-5110.

Lifelong Learning At Temple Sinai

Temple Sinai is a warm and welcoming Reform Jewish community engaged in lifelong learning, social justice, and soulful worship.

Lifelong Learning (Torah) — Wherever you find yourself, we want to help you get to the next stage of your Jewish journey. We offer formal and informal opportunities for learners to find genuine meaning and answers to keenly felt moral questions and personal issues within the Jewish tradition.

You will notice that we have a wonderful range of events from stand-alone events to three-session mini-courses to a two-year in-depth study. For this congregation, the social experience of learning is extremely important alongside the content of our study. We hope that you will deepen your connections to our heritage and each other as you move to the next stage of your journey.

For more information on specific classes, please visit www.templesinaihv.org.

L’shalom/To Peace
Rabbi Malcolm Cohen

What’s ahead in our Torah?

February 2-3 Yitro  Moses’ father-in-law brings him good advice. We gather at Mt Sinai to hear the words from G-d, the Ten commandments.

February 9-10 Mishpatim We learn of the Pilgrimage Festivals – Pesach, Shavuot and Sukkot. Moses spends 40 days and nights atop Mt. Sinai.

February 16-17 Terumah  We donate gifts for the building of the Mishkan. G-d gives us the instruction manuals for the Ark, menorah and Tabernacle.

February 23-24 Tetzaveh  Aaron and his sons are chosen to be the priests. Instructions are given on how to make the special priestly garments.

Presented by your Temple Sinai Ritual Committee.

Join us for Shabbat worship every Friday night.
and Study & worship every Saturday at 9:00AM
Good learning with good people!
