Getting on the Balcony

Don’t worry, I’m not talking about installing a balcony for women at Temple Sinai! ‘Getting on the balcony’ is a leadership technique, more of which I will tell you about in a moment.

I have recently embarked as a participant in the Clergy Leadership Incubator: twenty Rabbis from around America are being taught how to be better Rabbis. In addition to making friends with new colleagues, I have started to learn a new way of looking at the world, in particular the Adaptive Leadership model. Stemming from the Harvard Kennedy School of Leadership, Adaptive Leadership focuses on the fact that any big, cultural issues are extremely hard to solve. There are no easy fixes. Instead, adaptive leaders ‘get on the balcony’ and try to see the bigger picture, rather than get too caught up in petty issues.

Each Rabbi in the incubator has to design an Innovation Project which he/she will develop over two years, partly drawing on the Adaptive Leadership Model. Each Rabbi also has a design team to help them (in my case, Rob Granados, Lynn Hunsinger, Jeff Klein, Candace Martin and Brian Messing). We had an important issue we wanted to answer: ‘How might we create space for intergenerational families at Temple Sinai?’ This played into the vision for Temple Sinai, which is ‘Your Family, Your Home’. Having such a vision for Temple Sinai is extremely challenging and outright difficult to deliver. To get to the place where folks feel other congregants are like mishpocha (family) is subtle and tricky.

To help us succeed, we invited some of you to intergenerational parlor meetings/small group discussions, where all different ages were represented. From those discussions came several ideas to make us into a mishpocha, some of which we will be rolling out in the next year.

Watch for those opportunities as the Jewish year develops. If we are to succeed in making Temple Sinai into a strong family, we will need to ‘get on the balcony’ together, see our wonderful congregation from a distance and work to bring us closer to one another.

L’shalom

Rabbi Malcolm Cohen
A Message from our President Ilana Shapiro

It's time to dust off the menorah, unpack the dreidels, stock up on gelt and start thinking about the 25th day of Kislev – the start of Chanukah. Admittedly, Chanukah is one of my favorite holidays. I love crisp latkes topped with homemade applesauce. I feel victorious when I find that little Chanukah tchotchke at one of those discount stores and I love gathering for Chanukah celebrations with my family and friends.

As Chanukah approaches, I hope that the light of the season will bring a sense of calm and peace to everyone. This joyous festival reminds us of many things: light in the midst of darkness; the victory of good over evil; the reality and importance of miracles in our lives. This year, take time to view the Chanukah candles as beacons of hope and healing. Each candle lit sheds a separate light, yet together they serve to bring warmth and joy into our hearts and homes. While we, as a nation, may differ on social and political issues, we are united in our love of community, country and the values upon which our great nation was founded. Let’s not fight or insult each other. Instead, let’s find a way to stand in solidarity and shed light and love into the world. We need to see the light of the Chanukiah as a symbol of all that is good in our society.

This year, when we light the Chanukah menorah, think about the many miracles that surround our lives: our loving friends and family that support us on a daily basis; medical discoveries that bring us comfort and healing; small acts of love and kindness that bring us comfort and hope. Whether we are considering the story of Chanukah, the parting of the Red Sea or the existence of the State of Israel, Jewish history provides us with the chance to appreciate and contribute to wondrous miracles. Take time to see the miracles that surround you and make the time to contribute to the miracles in someone else’s life.

May this season be a season of love, light and wonderful miracles.

B’shalom,

Ilana

Chaverim!

Funny how this year, when December came, I started to imagine what it will be like to talk to my daughter Lila about the holiday season: what Chanukah is, and why there are not very many people greeting you in the department stores, cafes and restaurants with the greeting “Happy Chanukah” or even “Happy Holidays.” Happily, I already have a great example to follow from the way my mom made Chanukah for me: from cookies shaped like dreidels, to gelt strewn throughout the house. I never felt like I was missing out when I was home. When I was out, or somehow watching a holiday movie where Christmas came up, sometimes it crossed my mind. So, I imagine this conversation will be difficult and ongoing.

I will say, that here at Temple Sinai, we have so many events and opportunities during December to feel the love of Chanukah and Judaism rise to another level. The choir will have several performances throughout the community including Opportunity Village. We have an amazing guest artist, Cantor Linda Hirschorn, coming to lead our choir with her ruach and original songs for our Pre-Chanukah Choir Shabbat celebration on December 20, Chanukah Pajamakah Friday Night Live and many other wonderful events like the Sisterhood Chanukah Party.

See you around the Shul!

Heather
Instructional coaches often feel intense pressure to promote change. School administration usually steers teachers to improve students’ success through changes that improve student learning and well-being. This pressure to move the needle can take place through a directive approach to coaching—telling teachers what they’ve done right and wrong and what they must do to improve. Recent research has shown that this is not the best way to help teachers flourish. Indeed, research found that recognizing and honoring teacher autonomy is an essential and fundamental part of effective coaching.

An ever-increasing body of research shows that professionals are rarely motivated when they have little autonomy. Researchers have illuminated why autonomy is essential for motivation and why exclusively top-down approaches to change are almost always guaranteed to fail (Educational Leadership, November, 2019).

Despite evidence of the importance of autonomy, autonomy is decreasing in schools. Many teachers report that they had no control or only minor control over the books they used, the content they taught, teaching techniques, student evaluation, student discipline or the amount of homework they gave students.

At Shenker Academy, we embrace guidance and facilitate autonomy daily. Each lead teacher receives detailed framework in language arts, science, reading, reading comprehension, mathematics and social studies at the beginning of the school year. However, teachers are given the autonomy to bring their own talents and aspiration through the framework they are taught to follow. From teaching counting through beans on a corn, through learning directions through Halloween spider web, teachers receive their autonomy to teach the essential skills while bringing joy and wisdom to the children they know the best. The reflections on lessons and projects get more interesting, and the learning process of the teaching staff gets personal and unique.

To learn about the success of this method, parents have the chance to meet with their child’s teacher during parent conferences (November and April) and see the portfolio their child created in the first three months of the school year.

Tzedakah

By Executive Director Phil Scully

As you approach the doors to the main sanctuary at Temple Sinai, just to the left you will see a beautiful, small box with the words “Tzedakah Box” printed above it. The box is a true piece of art and was donated to Temple Sinai by Frank Curhan.

For those of you who are not familiar with a Tzedakah box, the main purpose is to accept donations to assist those in need. The word ‘Tzedakah’ is commonly used to mean ‘charity’, but the root word of tzedakah means ‘justice’. In fact, the motivation for tzedakah endures through the centuries: to sustain the Jewish people, to enhance the Jewish life and to strengthen the Jewish community for today and the future.

“In Judaism, tzedakah refers to the religious obligation to do what is right and just, which Judaism emphasizes is an important part of living a spiritual life. Thus, unlike voluntary philanthropy, tzedakah is seen as a religious obligation that must be performed regardless of one’s financial standing, and is considered mandatory even for those of limited financial means”

So, the next time you pass by the Tzedakah box on your way into the sanctuary, please consider placing a donation into the box. Your donation will go to support the Pizza to IDF Soldiers program, and you will also benefit from knowing that you have done a mitzvah.

Shalom Chaverim,

Another year is coming to a close! This can only mean one thing: Chanukah is just around the corner. The Festival of Lights has been, lamentably, commercialized over the last 60 years - Judaism has gift-giving times of the year (namely Purim), and historically Chanukah is not one of those. Rather, let us use this time of year to remember the reason for the season: light, specifically, sparks of hope and energy in times of darkness.

Perhaps it is the shortness of the days or the seismic waves in the news cycle, but it is key for us to keep in mind who we should be concerned with in such times - those most marginalized in our society today (see Exodus 22:20, 23:9; Leviticus 19:33; Deut 10:18, 15:4-11, 27:19; Isaiah 1:17, etc.), as well as future generations whose future is in peril. In these dark times, our youth are the sparks of hope and brightness for a better tomorrow - but we must not rely on them to make necessary changes when they come of age. We must fight for them and invest in them now. Please join us on December 14th for a wonderful Chanukah party to support our very own Temple Sinai Youth Department, which will go to support our Religious School and youth groups, which provides rich and robust Jewish learning & experiences from ages 4-17.

Furthermore, please join us on the Shabbat of January 10-11 when we will be joined by Rabbi Dr. Shmuly Yanklowitz as our Scholar in Residence. Rabbi Yanklowitz’s writings have appeared in outlets as diverse as The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Post, The Guardian, and The Atlantic, among many other secular and religious publications. Rabbi Yanklowitz is a sought-after educator, social justice activist, and motivational speaker as well as the author of seventeen books on Jewish spirituality, social justice and ethics. He has twice been named one of America’s Top Rabbis by Newsweek. In 2016, The Forward named Rabbi Shmuly one of the Most Inspiring Rabbis in America. Last year, Rabbi Shmuly made history by being the very first Orthodox Rabbi to author a volume published by the Reform Movement with “Pirkei Avot: A Social Justice Commentary”. He is the founder and President of SHAMAYIM: Jewish Animal Advocacy, YATOM: Jewish Adoption & Foster Care, and several other Jewish activist groups.

He is a leading voice in the Jewish social justice world, and one of the great Jewish leaders of our time. I am honored to call Rabbi Shmuly a mentor and a friend - you truly will not want to miss him speak.

May the light of the Chanukah candles light the spark in your heart!

L’Shalom,

Alex Weisz, Director of Jewish Education
B’nai Mitzvah

Barry Glusman will be called to the Torah on December 21, 2019 at Temple Sinai.

Barry Glusman came to Temple Sinai for Shabbat services three years ago and felt so welcomed and so at home that he just loved it. Since his first Bar Mitzvah was 60 years ago, he realized he did not know Hebrew or any of the customs anymore. After hearing Rabbi Cohen speaking one Friday night during the Story of Joseph, at a point in time where Joseph revealed who he was to his brothers, Rabbi Cohen explained that Joseph took off his mask. Barry realized that he was also wearing a mask and was a part-time Jew. At this point he decided it was time to rededicate himself; to learn Judaism and to learn to read Hebrew. The best way for him to do that was to ask the Rabbi for a second Bar Mitzvah, which he immediately replied “yes, of course”. It has been ten months of lessons, practice, Friday nights and Saturday mornings, and the day has arrived.

Lifelong Learning

Temple Sinai is a warm and welcoming Reform Jewish community dedicated to the support of Israel and passionate about lifelong learning, social justice and soulful worship.

Wherever you find yourself, we want to help you get to the next stage of your Jewish journey. We offer formal and informal opportunities for learners to find genuine meaning and answers to keenly felt moral questions and personal issues within the Jewish tradition.

You will notice that we have a wonderful range of events, from stand-alone events to three-session mini-courses to a two-year in-depth study. For this congregation, the social experience of learning is extremely important alongside the content of our study. We hope that you will deepen your connections to our heritage and each other as you move to the next stage of your journey.

What’s Ahead in our Torah?

December 6-7 Vayeitzei: Jacobs flees from his home, thinking that Esau will kill him. Jacob dreams of angels going up and down a ladder. G-d blesses him. Jacob works for Laban for 21 years, marrying Leah and Rachel, amassing great wealth. He leaves Laban with his wives and eleven sons!

December 13-14 Vayishlach: Jacob leaves Laban a wealthy man with two wives! On his way to meet Esau he dreams and wrestles “someone,” who changes his name to Israel.

December 20-21 Vayeshev: Joseph, the favored son, is sold into slavery by his brothers. The story of Judah and Tamar is injected into this portion. Why?

December 27-28 Mikeitz: Joseph gains power as he interprets Pharoah’s dreams. His brothers come to Egypt, but Joseph remains ‘hidden’ from them.

Presented by the Temple Sinai Ritual Committee.
Join us for Shabbat worship every Friday night in the Copeland Sanctuary.

Torah study is every Saturday at 9:00 AM in the Karbal Library, and worship is every Saturday at 10:00 AM in the Small Shul.

Sisterhood President Marge Nordell

As the year comes to an end, I want to thank the Sisterhood Board members who have worked so diligently to make our group so cohesive and responsive to our membership. We have had some fantastic guest speakers and wonderful programs, as well as some great food. We are looking forward to continuing with more events in the coming year.

On December 14th, we are going to celebrate Chanukah together at Tina’s house with our Annual Potluck Dinner. It is an opportunity to spend quality time together and is a chance to get to know each other better. Please contact Helen and enjoy the special evening.

Our Gift Shop has new and amazing Chanukah gift items. Please stop and visit the Shop.

I wish all of you a joyous, fun-filled Chanukah and a healthy, happy and peaceful New Year.

B’Shalom,

Marge
The Temple Sinai Social Action Committee is pleased to announce its 6th annual Chanukah Gift Project which will benefit Jewish Family Services and Odyssey Charter School. The congregation comes together during the Holiday’s to bring joy to families in need by performing a Mitzvah, one family at a time! We will collect gifts for the children and grocery / gift cards for the parents from Wal-Mart, Target or Smith’s.

Two “Menorahs” will be set up in the lobby of the Temple with “wish cards” attached. Congregants can read each card and decide which one(s) they wish to fulfill. There is a sign out sheet for members to record each gift card they take. We ask that the gifts be returned unwrapped, with the gift card attached, so we can identify which child or parent the gift is for.

The Menorah’s will be going up on December 3rd and the project will run through December 27th.

Please contact Eileen Bellsey-Levin at 702-334-1444 with any questions.
Men’s Club

Where in the World is Temple Sinai?

Temple Sinai members proudly wear their Temple Sinai hats on their travels!

Lily and Paul Rothman, with Paul sporting his Temple Sinai hat, visiting Puerto Vallarta

Mark Schussler, Men’s Club 2nd VP, and Les Gilbert, Men’s Club President, welcomed Israel Maimon, CEO of Israel bonds to our November Breakfast.
He gave us the fascinating, exciting, and inside story of Israel’s daring raid on the “secret” Syrian nuclear reactor site in October 2007.

Men’s Club thanks Lisa and Morris Dubin for co-sponsoring our November Breakfast in memory of Morris’ Uncle Albert.
The Bereavement Group

The Bereavement Group meets on the 1st and 3rd Tuesday mornings each month at Temple Sinai from 10:30 AM to 12:00 PM. We welcome everyone in the community to our meetings regardless of their religion. Our main purpose is to help people get through the initial months alone and to strive to help them make a new life. Being with others in the same place as you are is very comforting. We also bring everyone who is interested into our social group which meets a few times a month for lunch or dinner.

If you have any questions, please call me.
Myrna Brown, Chairman (702) 804-9910

Legacy gifts flow into endowments you choose. Endowments yield annual support for Temple Sinai. Even after your own lifetime, your legacy gifts continue to benefit your community far into the future...always.

Endowments ensure financial stability. Jewish Legacy gifts build strong Jewish endowments.

You control your intended gift, and it is yours to use if you have need for it.

Every gift is important.

It’s that simple.

Thank you Endowment and Legacy donors. You make our future sweet and bright.
Happy Chanukah!
